Knowing that the location for the 2024 edition of the ISA International Conference is currently being discussed, I would like to encourage you to choose Kraków. Our City is the historical capital of Poland, a city of culture, art, science and countless invaluable monuments. Its special atmosphere and unique sights, many of which feature on UNESCO's World Heritage List, invariably attract numerous tourists.

We do cherish our heritage, at the same time working hard for our city to become a vibrant modern metropolis. Over the recent years, the city has become a local leader in business processes outsourcing, a seat of multinational corporations, banks, business associations and international chambers of trade and commerce. The business potential of Kraków is further increased by the modern, conveniently located Kraków Airport.

Kraków also offers you impressive venues. TAURON Arena Kraków, ICE Kraków or EXPO Kraków are modern facilities meeting the highest standards required for holding large scale events. Over the recent months, Kraków's venues have introduced all necessary organizational and technological adjustments to be able to organize hybrid, as well on-line congresses and conventions. Prioritizing the safety of guests and staff, the local conference and accommodation facilities have developed detailed procedures to ensure a seamless experience for event participants and, thus, live up to your expectations.

Having in mind the above mentioned strong points of our venues, as well as the fact that our city's atmosphere provides most favorable conditions for both work and leisure, I am deeply convinced that Kraków will win your heart as a perfect place for such an important event as the 2024 ISA Conference. Highly appreciating the significance of this meeting, Kraków will be honoured to host the event and welcome you and your colleagues from around the globe.

Yours sincerely,

Jacek Majchrowski
Mayor of Kraków
